One application, two installers. Your notes stay on your own disk as ordinary Markdown files, and the AI model runs on your own API key.

The installers are not published yet

We would rather leave the buttons honest than put up a link that 404s. The builds are being finished now. Press either button and it opens an e-mail that is already written — send it as it is, and yours is one of the first addresses we write to on release day.

WHAT YOU ARE ASKING TO BE TOLD ABOUT

- A desktop application, not a web page pretending to be one.
- Your vault is a folder you pick. Notes are standard `.md` files, one per note, with a generated table of contents in `base.md`.
- The model is yours: your own API key to Anthropic, OpenAI, Gemini, Groq, OpenRouter, a local Ollama or your own server. We never resell inference.

- Nothing you write reaches our servers from the desktop application.
- Seven days free without a card, then one dollar a month, one plan.

IN THE MEANTIME

The blog explains what the application does, question by question, and the comparison pages put it next to the tools you may already use.
